Update on Missy from Barb Marcum:

This is all good news. Missy came home from Encompass on Friday. While she was there she had a swallow test and passed! She is now on small bite size food and as long as she eat 50% of her food then there is no tube feeding. She eats 100% every meal. She goes to the family doctor on Tuesday and they will order another swallow test for larger size food. If she passes it then they will make arrangements to take the tube out. Now she is talking a lot more. It is still raspy but the more she talks the stronger it gets. We are able to carry on a small conversation

now. 😊 they had her up and walking every day and she is trying to make sure she keeps is feet straight. The new home health has came to assess Missy and therapy starts tomorrow. PT told he does see why Missy shouldn't be walking unassisted with her walker soon. She was making progress before rehab and they just propelled her even farther. I am so thrilled. I'm thanking God all the time. I know God is not finished with her.

Please keep Micheal and little Brody in your prayers. This is hard on then and they are feeling the worse strain over this. Thank you all for your prayer and encouraging words.
